INAUGURATION OF DR. B. JOSEPH MARTIN PRESIDENT OF WESLEYAN COLLEGE

EIGHTEENTH PRESIDENT INDUCTED DURING JOINT CEREMONIAL

History was made in Macon, Georgia, this January with the inauguration of George B. Connell as sixteenth president of Mercer University and Dr. B. Joseph Martin as eighteenth president of Wesleyan College, in a joint three-day ceremonial beginning with the first Convocation on Thursday night, January 21, at the Macon City Auditorium. The Conference, the theme of which was taken from Columbia University's bi-centennial, "Man's Right to Knowledge and the Free Use Thereof," was unique in that it struck a new note of harmony and cooperation between two great Christian institutions and the friends of both.

Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, Wesleyan alumnae president, describes the occasion in these words: "The opening Convocation was attended by noted educators from 147 educational institutions and learned societies. They marched according to founding dates, resplendent and impressive in black caps and gowns, hung with hoods of scarlet satin, of scarlet, purple, and blue velvet, and even ermine, representing Oxford University, chartered about 1150.

"For three days a succession of well-planned events moved with the dignity and precise beauty of a march by Sir Edward Elgar. The City of Macon struck the first joyous note with its gourmets' dinner for delegates and officials at the Hotel Dempsey, preceding the Thursday Convocation. From then on it was a feast for the intellect and eyes, as well as the palate, for rarely have such brilliant speakers been assembled in these parts; such handsome floral effects achieved; or so much food served with the grace of Southern tradition.

"Both Wesleyan and Mercer played hosts to the visiting educators. A college president from Alabama said the whole program was the finest thing he had ever attended; another, from a sisterstate, declared he liked it so much he wanted to 'build a house and stay'!

"Alumnae wondered how they would ever be able to get back to dishes and dusting after breathing the rarefied air of the week-end. Certainly everyone seemed caught up in a great tidal wave of devotion to education, to freedom, to Macon's church-affiliated, historical institutions of learning, to the two young men who were now to lead them toward an even brighter future."

Alleen (Poer) Hinton, Wesleyan College trustee, and Dr. Spright Dowell, president emeritus of Mercer, served as co-chairmen of the three-day program. Tireless and efficient committees from both faculties and trustees worked with them effecting the multitude of details.

First Convocation

Thursday night, January 21, the Macon City Auditorium was the scene of the first great processional when, marching in after the seniors, the faculties, and trustees of both schools, each official representative was introduced to the two new presidents on the great stage, before taking his or her place down in the audience.

On this opening night friends of Wesleyan and Mercer came together to hear the first two great speakers of the Conference, Dr. Harold Claude Case, president of Boston University, and Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, pastor, Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh, N. C.

Dr. Martin introduced Dr. Case who spoke on The Areas and Exercise of Freedom, outlining what he termed the "assets we have for freedom."

"First, we have the basic philosophy as stated in the preamble to the Constitution," he said. "We have a basic and underlying belief in which we have reverence for each other and reverence for the universe. Our great traditions and the four major freedoms are an asset for keeping us free."

He warned, however, that the congressional committees "for investigating subversive practices in this country and abroad must be reorganized if we are to preserve freedom of speech with all its implications."

The Boston educator praised the nation's public school system and said the "small church-related college has produced a leadership out of all proportion to its size." He said, "There is an attack on public education today. Do not think it can't happen in your city or in mine. Only as these boys and girls, young men and women, find the common denominator of fellowship, keen sense of integrity, and gain their training in the public schools of America can we have a world in which peace will survive."

Dr. Case urged us "to support these church related colleges. If they have their views hampered because of financial starvation or for any other reason, then bid farewell to this freedom of the mind we cherish. You must say 'This is my responsibility'!"

Dr. Poteat's subject was The Meaning of Freedom and Its Implications. He said that "on the conscious level, life is a quest for freedom. We eat to free ourselves from hunger, play to free ourselves from boredom, take analgesics to free ourselves from pain, go to school to free us from ignorance, to church to free us from sin."

The North Carolina minister declared, "Man is not an independent or autonomous creature. More than any other created thing he lives by depending on things other than himself. His body depends on food, shelter, clothing; his mind, on ideas; his emotions, on persons and situations, open or concealed. To live in isolation, if he could, would destroy him. Similarly, he is not autonomous. He no more determines all the laws that guide him than he orders the circulation of his blood. For all his noisy self-praise, man is dependent almost to the point of helplessness; under restraint almost to the point of servitude. Almost, I say; and it is along that margin that he finds his path to freedom."

Dr. Poteat said, "Man has the opportunity to choose. He can be as great, as real, as true, as aspiring as he wills himself to be and as his own spiritual imperative demands. We acquire freedom rather than inherit it."

He stressed the value of education to the wise exercise of freedom and emphasized the place of Christian education in a free society. "The duty of the free church related institution is not to indoctrinate but to liberate," Dr. Poteat stated.

"To be what you are is to be free; to do what you will is the implication thereof. It is the faith of Christian liberal education that within the orbit of Christian thought and action, man will achieve the highest level of his real and potential self."

Between speakers the Wesleyan chorus, dressed in all white evening gowns, sang the Coronation Anthem from Handel, under the direction of Vladimir Zorin. Earlier the Mercer Chorus sang "Hallelujah" from "Mount of Olives." The two choruses made a vivid picture flanking the robed dignitaries.

The processional march and the recessional were played by Doris Onderdonk Jelks, organist.

The Mercer Inauguration

Friday, January 22, was Inauguration Day. That morning the chancel in Willingham Chapel at Mercer was banked in magnolia leaves and camellias for the inauguration of George B. Connell. The Mercer choir, wearing their wine-colored robes and filling the choir loft, sang The Lord's Prayer.

Dr. Martin and Mr. Connell

Following the robed processional, greetings were extended Mr. Connell by the president of the student government, Wallace Harrell; from his faculty, by Dr. Henry L. Batts; the alumni, by Dr. Albert Louis Evans, president of the Alumni Association; the Georgia Baptist Convention, by Dr. Searcy S. Garrison; the Southern Baptist Education Commission, by Dr. R. Orin Cornett; and the country-at-large, by Dr. William Richardson White, president, Baylor University.

The address of the morning was given by Dr. Harold Wayland Tribble, president of Wake Forest College. He spoke on Liberal Education in Today's World. Dr. Tribble warned that "any attempt to control liberal education in the interest of economic utilitarianism or political authoritarianism will induce leukemia in higher education." He also said that liberal education will be "seriously hampered by lower education" unless liberal education has a voice "in determining the context, the direction, the motivation and the content of lower education..."

"For a generation now," Tribble said, "our states have gone so far in requiring that our teachers have technical training that they have made it almost impossible for us to have well-educated teachers in our secondary schools."

The North Carolinian said one of the greatest tasks facing liberal colleges "is educating American business in the philosophy of investing some of the profits of industry in the production of better citizens." He said this education is necessary to implement the increasing interest of industrial leaders in liberal education.

President Connell, after being inducted into office by T. Baldwin Martin, past chairman of Mercer's trustees, spoke on his four-point plan for Mercer and her further development.

Connell; Mrs. Connell; Dr. Albert Evans, Atlanta, president of Mercer Alumni Association; Dr. Martiin, Mrs. Martin, Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, president of Wesleyan Alumnae Association.

Following the program in Willingham Chapel, Mercer was host to the official delegates and both faculties at lunch on the Mercer campus.

Alumni Open House

The halls and parlors of old Wesleyan on the Hill came to life Friday afternoon when the alumni of Wesleyan and Mercer held Open House honoring the wives of the two new presidents, Mrs. Connell and Mrs. Martin.

From the arrangements of magnolia leaves, greens and berries in the halls, from the delicately tinted tulips and camellias in the Alumnae Parlor, from the old-fashioned nosegays of camellias and narcissi placed lovingly in the A.D. Pi and Phi Mu Memorial rooms, to the three punch tables gleaming with old silver and laden with red camellias in the Grand Parlors, the warmth and hospitality of the Deep South was extended to over 500 guests including official representatives, the alumni and faculties of both schools, as well as friends and benefactors of both. Each student body was represented by twelve selected students.

But it was orchids to the ladies in the receiving line. With them in the Alumnae Parlor were four maids of honor to Mrs. Martin and four maids of honor to Mrs. Connell, each group elected from its student body.

The alumnae thanks go to Florence (Trimble) Jones, who served as chairman of the Open House for Wesleyan, and the following who served on her committee: decorations, Emma (Drew) Clay, Adele (Warnock) Flournoy, Polly (Pierce) Corn, Martha (Howard) Balkcom, Hazel (Stokes) Thompson, and Martha Mattox, representing Mercer; Phi Mu Memorial room, Belle (Ross) Valentine; A. D. Pi Memorial room, Octavia (Burden) Stewart; properties, Evelyn (Thaxton) Thrasher, Emily (Dozier) Knott, Benjie (Matthias) Martin; food, Helen (Cater) Farmer and Lora (Waterman) Burke; hostesses, Elizabeth (Loyall) Woods, Elsie (Lowden) Maxwell, Linda (Anderson) Lane, Jennie (Loyall) Anderson, and Annie (Gantt) Anderson.

Nonie (Acree) Quillian, outstanding Atlanta alumna and wife of Dr. Wm. F. Quillian, former president of Wesleyan and "dreamer and builder of Rivoli," writes about the occasion as follows: "Congratulations to Wesleyan, to the Macon alumnae and all who gave of their time and interest that made the Inaugural ceremonies such a success. The Open House at the Conservatory and the dinner at Rivoli were beautiful and inspiring. I always feel honored to belong to Wesleyan.

"It did my heart good to see and feel the challenge of this joint program by the two Colleges. The opening night was a tremendous occasion and everything at Mercer was of the highest and best. Dr. Quillian joins me in congratulations and love to all."

The Wesleyan Dinner

From the Open House to the Anderson dining room on the Rivoli campus came the official representatives, the faculties and trustees of both schools, the Wesleyan staff and benefactors, for dinner preceding the inauguration of Dr. Martin

The light from hundreds of candles in candelabra banked with camellias and ivy gave the beautiful, high ceilinged room a rich and festive air for the formal dinner. Dr. Martin and Mrs. Martin, gowned in glittering white toole, graciously served as hosts to the many distinguished guests.

Annie (Gantt) Anderson, alumnae trustee, was chairman and the following were on her committee for the elaborate and beautifully served dinner: Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, alumnae president, Mrs. W. H. Ketchem, assistant to the dean of women, Mrs. Inez Gray, hostess at Rivoli, Mrs. Jennie Hurst, dietitian, and Jeanette (Wallace) Oliphant, who traveled over Georgia to get the thousands of camellias used on the tables.

Immediately following the dinner, wives of the Wesleyan faculty served coffee in the student lounge, while the dignitaries donned their robes for the third and last processional.

pressive ceremony of inducting Dr. Martin as president of Wesleyan. He stood before a background suggesting Gothic arches, stark white, mounted with greens and flame colored gladioli, especially prepared by Fine Arts faculty members.

Dr. Goodrich C. White, president of Emory University, presided.

A Litany, especially written for this occasion by Dr. Edmund F. Cook of Macon, was led by Alleen (Poer) Hinton, member of Board of Trustees.

Dean S. L. Akers in his presentation said, "For the advancement of Christian education I present B. Joseph Martin, scholar, educator, Methodist minister, Christian gentleman, to be inducted as the eighteenth president of Wesleyan College."

The Reverend George Esmond Clary, secretary, Board of Trustees, led the act of dedication as follows:

MR. CLARY: B. Joseph Martin, you have been elected by the Trustees of Wesleyan College and appointed by The Methodist Church, as President of this Christian Institution-a college known for its compelling Christian challenge to young life, for its broad liberal principles of education, and for its world-wide ministry of service to humanity. Take courage in these ancient words, "Have I not commanded thee: be strong and of good courage; be not affrighted, neither be thou dismayed, for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

PRESIDENT MARTIN: I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

MR. CLARY: Your task will demand the best in culture, the finest in scholar-ship, the highest in wisdom, that the torchlight of truth may be kept burning with increasing brightness. Therefore, thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy mind.

PRESIDENT MARTIN: I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

MR. CLARY: As an administrator you will need to be courageous but charitable, firm but forgiving, fearless but fair, progressive but patient, uncompromising but co-operative, remembering "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor."

PRESIDENT MARTIN: I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

MR. CLARY: As President of this College, your shadow of influence will fall across the paths of many people; faculty and students, ministers, and members of the Church, and many others. Pray that your shadow, like that of Peter, may bring much of health, healing and harmony to these who esteem you and who imitate you, as you are an imitator of Christ.

PRESIDENT MARTIN: I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

Leo B. Huckabee, Chairman, Board of Trustees, next charged Dr. Martin with the responsibilities of administering wisely and to the best of his ability all the affairs of this institution of The Methodist Church and in token of his authority presented Dr. Martin the charter of the College signed and dated in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and thirty-six.

The Task Before Us

Dr. Martin responded to this charge, the greatest challenge of his life, first with a few very moving words, thanking Mrs. Martin for her love and loyalty in the past, and asking for the loyalty and support of all interested in Wesleyan. Then he spoke on The Task Before Us.

"Religion, education and freedom form our great social triumvirate," said President Martin, after which he interpreted the close relationship of the three. "As far as we know, history has no instance of national character being built up without the aid of religious instruction. The final question regarding any education is whether it produces the type of character required by the republic and the race. Our true strength is not what we have but what we believe. The practical idealism of America has been her might and her glory. Many of us find encouragement in the spiritual renaissance now taking place. The future is assured for any nation when that nation takes stock of its spiritual heritage."

"A Christian program of education is more than a sentiment; it is the ruling purpose, the dominant motive of effort."

Dr. Martin stated that he feels that in order for a college to be good it must be academically sound and do something to the minds of students. He also stated that there must be a certain amount of heresy around an academic institution lest senility set in — not heresy for heresy's sake, but heresy with a passion for truth for the sake of humanity to enrich life with a redemptive emphasis.

After elaborating on "our precious freedoms," Dr. Martin stated, "So far our nation has been held together by the adhesive quality of the remaining influences of our Judea-Christian heritage. The probability of our surviving as a nation is in direct ratio to the perpetuation of these basic religious beliefs."

"The American educational system pleads not just for money but for what that money can do in terms of human life," he continued. "We in this generation have inherited the serious and awesome responsibility of defending our American way of life, our instruments of government, and our very civilization, against the most determined and most powerful foe a free society has ever faced." Dr. Martin stated many people fear another world war, an atomic war; however, "the real struggle for the liberty and the dignity of man is already taking place and has been raging for several decades. We have been slow to realize this fact."

Dr. Martin closed with these words, "Essential in our concept of a free society is the place and function of education. The free institutions of home, church and school are essential in the defense of our American way of life, including all of our economic and spiritual resources. Unless we give these values our loyalty and intelligent devotion we shall have failed in a crucial test to discharge the greatest responsibility of our generation—the guarantee of freedom for ourselves and those who follow after us."

The address of the evening was given by Dr. John Owen Gross, Executive Secretary, Division of Educational Institutions, General Board of Education of The Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn. He spoke on The Practice of Christian Education. He declared that the chief concern of the Christian college has changed from "academic acceptability to deepened interest in their Christian commitments."

"And Christian leaders are being attracted to college administrative posts by an enlarged interest of the church in the growth and development of its educational institutions," he said.

Rising in a curved tier beside the improvised stage, the Wesleyan Glee Club "looked and sang like the heavenly choir." The audience remained almost breathless as their young voices joined in "Our Father Who Art in Heaven" by Dr. Sigurd Jorgenson, dean of the Fine Arts School and talented violinist, made his Macon debut with a moving performance of "Legende" by Wieniawski.

The invocation was given by Dr. Lester Rumble vice-chairman, Board of Trustees; and the benediction, by Dr. Waights Gibbs Henry, Jr., president, La-Grange College.

Second Convocation

This great Conference came to a close Saturday morning, January 23, with the last program in Willingham Chapel at Mercer, presided over by Dr. Martin.

Alumnae Scholarships for Wesleyan Girls

Your gift to the Loyalty Fund for 1952-53 is helping one of the following girls to further her education at Wesleyan either in the Liberal Arts School or the Fine Arts School. Some of the gifts to the Loyalty Fund are made in honor or in memory of some alumna or alumnae. The A. D. Pi and Phi Mu Scholarships, although given by the Grand Councils of these organizations, number alumnae among their contributors.

You will be interested to know that due to the death of Mrs. Chenery there will be no more Chenery Scholarships in Music after this year. At her death the fund was to be the William E. and Marion Luse Chenery Professorship in Vocal Music.

Tommie Louise Turner Craft Memorial Scholarship, given by her husband, is held by Marilyn Bennett of Spartanburg, S. C.

The Evelyn Wright Banks Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Betty Frances Castlen, Macon.

The Julia Munroe Woodward Scholarship, given by this alumna in memory of Dr. Silas Johnson, is held by Mary Pierpont Riley of Jacksonville Beach, Fla.

The Mary Richardson Register Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Adele Burgin, Macon.

The Mildred Wallace East Memorial Scholarship, given by her sister Lucile Wallace Nuckolls and other members of the class of 1937, is held by Charlye Wiggins, Macon.

The Lucy Candler Leide Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Pat Waters of Fitgerald. Ga.

The Sarah Louise Turner Butler Scholarship is held by Susan Stankrauf, Miami, Fla.

The Betty Turner Corn Scholarship went to Eleanor Thompson, Macon.

The John Gilmore Memorial Scholarship, given by Jennie (Loyall) Anderson, was awarded to Carolyn Sims of Atlanta.

The Linda Anderson Lane Scholarship, given by this alumna, is held by Marcia Mallett, Jackson, daughter of Mary (Lane) Mallet.

The Lucie Thaxton Wright Scholarship, given by this alumna, went to Natalie Brewton of McRae.

The Beulah Smith Jelks Scholarship is held by Joan Shapiro of N. Miami, Fla.

The Dorothy Blount Lamar Scholarship was awarded to Athelyn Wade of Macon.

The Loula Evans Jones Memorial Scholarship, given by her husband, Col. R. O. Jones of Newman, went to Betsy Comer of Macon.

The Thomas J. Stewart Scholarship, given by Octavia (Burden) Stewart, was awarded to Emily Sawyer of Perry, Ga.

The Ruth Benedict Watson Scholarship went to Louise Cawley of Quitman.

The Ada Heath Montgomery Scholarship went to Judith Fuller of Winter Park, Fla.

The Tappan Scholarship in memory of the parents of Bessie (Tappan) Farris was awarded to Mary Tappan of Dunwoody, Ga.

The Ruth Kasey Yost Scholarship is held by Mary Benedict of E. Palatka, Fla.

The Margaret Porter Gordon Scholarship, honoring Presidents W. F. Quillian and Chas. R. Jenkins and their faculties, went to Carole Broadwell of Atlanta.

The Dickerson Moore Scholarship, given by Marion (Cook) Murphey in memory of her grandfather, was awarded to Carolyn Eaddy of Columbia, S. C.

The Eloise Ainsworth Scholarship, given in memory of this alumna by Hattie (Saussy) Saussy, went to Frances Tillman of Miami, Fla.

The Mary Brooks Lester Brooks Scholarship is held by Gostin Freeney of Macon.

The Phi Delta Phi Scholarship, given by this honor society, went to Rosalie Voight of Birmingham, Ala.

The Atlanta Alumnae Endowed Scholarship Fund, provided a scholarship for Beverly Turner of Atlanta. This is the second scholarship from this fund.

The Macon Alumnae Club gave a scholarship to Faye Anderson of Macon.

The Golden Anniversary Scholarship for Class of 1903, given by members of this class, went to Margaret Gunnels of Macon.

The Silver Anniversary Scholarship for Class of 1928, given by members of this class, went to Elizabeth Howorth of Avon Park, Fla.

The Phi Mu Scholarship, given each year by the Grand Council of the organiation, is held by Mary Gaissert of Griffin.

The Zeta Tau Alpha Scholarship, provided for by an endowed scholarship fund given by this organization, went to Catherine Brandon of Cartersville.

The Grace Laramore Hightower Fellowship is held by our alumna Evelyn McGarrity.

The Julia Mathews Parker Scholarship, given by the late Ella (Parker) Leonard in memory of her mother, was awarded to Jo Ann Shackleford of Alpharetta, Ga.

The Wimberly-Mathews-Rhodes Endowed Scholarship, given by the late Mary (Mathews) Rhodes, made possible a scholarship to Jone McKenney of St. Simons Island, Ga.

The Loula Evans Jones Endowed Scholarships, provided for from an endowment given by Col. R. O. Jones of Newnan in memory of his wife, went to Ethel Earle and Dell Young both of Newnan.

The Pauline Logan Findlay Scholarships, provided for in the bequest of Margaret McEvoy, went to Lillian Richter, Eleanor Thompson and Charlye Wiggins, all of Macon.

The Class of 1948 Endowed Scholarship went to Barbara Ketterbaugh of New Canaan, Conn.

The Class of 1949 Endowed Scholarship was awarded to Margy McCarty of Jackson, Ga.

The Class of 1951 Endowed Scholarship was given to Jan Wilson of Fort Valley.

The Class of 1952 Endowed Scholarship is held by Mary Katherine Upchurch of Atlanta.

The Studstill Endowed Scholarship Fund, given in memory of Beth (Studstill) Nelson by her parents, provided scholarships for Joan Arlt of Sarasota, Fla., Betty Bate of Winter Park, Fla., Barbara Embler of West Palm Beach, Fla., Nancy Williams of Sebring, Fla., and Jeannice Hammond of West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Hinman Endowed Scholarship Fund, bequeathed to Wesleyan by the late Florence (Hand) Hinman of the class of '95, provided scholarships for Ilse Gronostay of Thomson, Nancy Ann Howard of Hollywood, Fla., Martha Kennedy of Atlanta, Nancy McClellan of Lakeland, Fla., Charlotte Poole of Decatur, Ga., and Brownie Bass of Macon.

The Hinkle Endowed Scholarship Fund, bequeathed to Weslevan by the late Eugene Hinkle of Connecticut in memory of his mother, Laura Ellen (Butts) Hinkle, provided scholarships for the following juniors and seniors whose scholastic records were outstanding: June Cason of Barnesville, Joan Clements of Eatonton, Bonnie Jo Gardner of Gainesville, Ga.; Elaine Halley of Camilla, Janie Heath of Soperton, Betty Henderson of Monticello, Mary Laslie of Attapulgus, Patricia Mangum of Augusta, Jane McCain of Starkville, Miss., Roberta Owen of Greenville, S. C., and Gayle Attaway of Dublin, Ga.

The Chenery Scholarships, given for the last time, were provided for by an endowment given by the late Dr. William E. Chenery and his wife, the late Marion (Luse) Chenery of Pennsylvania, to be used for scholarships during her lifetime. These scholarships went to the following: Jean Adams of Americus, Phyllis Clough of Douglas, Nancy Counts of Daytona Beach, Fla., Jane Courtenay of Gainesville, Ga., Patricia Harper of Jesup, Tomoka Hata of Hiroshima, Japan, Mary Edith Hollingsworth of Pineville,

President's Wife Becomes First Honorary Alumna

Evelyn (Duryea) Martin, wife of Dr. B. Joseph Martin, was inducted as an honorary member of the National Wesleyan Alumnae Association at the annual Alumnae Council meeting on November 17. Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, national president, gave the Benson charge to Mrs. Martin and Malene (Lee) Morgan, alumnae secretary, lighted her candle. Evelyn (Duryea) Martin wore the Master's robe and hood representing Ohio State University at Columbus, Ohio.

Following reports from the national officers and alumnae secretary, the club presidents outlined their activities.

Dr. Sigurd Jorgensen, dean of the school of fine arts, and Dr. S. L. Akers, dean of the school of liberal arts, presented a verbal picture of the opportunities offered at Wesleyan, thus giving the framework of the picture. The "color" of the picture was added by students representing the different College organizations and by the foreign students. We quote from one of the talks . . . all of which added to the beauty of the picture . . . from Syd Willis, Ocilla, Ga., representing Social Standards:

"Color in our Wesleyan picture comes in our social activities.

"For the Wesleyanne, each event has its own dash of color; but what is important is not so much the event itself, nor the color, but the guiding tone that makes these colors significant to the Wesleyan girl here at Wesleyan and later as she takes her place in the picture of life in the world.

"That tone is there because Wesleyan has provided many and right opportunities that make it possible for her to develop ideals and standards in her social life as well as in her other activities. That tone underlying and giving significance is a summary of these ideals and standards.

"In each social event of her life, the Wesleyanne, as a painter of life, will be governed by this tone in all the colors she adds to the world. The Wesleyanne's colors will be significant to her and to the viewer because they are not vague mixtures of unmeaningful hues, but living and purposeful colors, toned by her experience as a painter of life at Wesleyan."

Dr. Martin, president, spoke completing the verbal picture of Wesleyan.

INAUGURATION STORY

Director, Association of American Colleges, spoke on The College in Our Democracy and stated "our greatness undoubtedly has been attained largely because of the steady growth of the independent and state supported colleges and universities which are needed to supplement and complement each other."

Dr. William Fletcher Russell, president, Teachers College, Columbia University, brought the final message, after which graduates of Columbia were invited to lunch at Mercer.

Dr. Russell warned those present that Americans and their schools are failing to teach proper citizenship and that this failure has weakened our ideals and threatened our liberties. But greater instruction in the theory of government is not enough improvement, he said. "Practice does not necessarily follow precept."

Dr. Russell concluded with this challenge which might well be the lesson learned from the theme of this Conference: "May we, in these days of peril modify and reform our plan of education, tying it to action; tying patriotism and action together in the minds, hearts and muscles of our citizens, that the torch of liberty, alight when it was handed to us, may remain burning bright when we hand it on to our posterity."

Contemporary Arts Festival In April

"Contemporary Art in Modern Life" will be the theme of the Arts Festival to be held this year April 5-6-7-8.

This year the Macon Alumnae Club is backing the sale of tickets as its annual project to raise scholarship funds. Season tickets are $3.00; patron tickets, $10.00 per person. Tickets for the individual night programs, April 5, 6, and 7, are $1.25 each. Contact the Alumnae Office or Wray (Shepherd) Marsh, Macon Club president, 844 Boulevard, for your ticket.

There will be panel discussions on the Rivoli campus, performances by students and faculty members, a contemporary play by the Drama Department, and two noted guest artists.

Carleton Sprague Smith, known in the world of music, art, and the theatre, will be the keynote speaker. He is on the board of the Metropolitan Opera Association and New York Library. The other guest artist will be Theodore Stamos, one of the most stimulating of the young modern painters in New York City. He will talk on the subject, Nature to Art, and try to show how nature influences art.

Mrs. Doris Onderdonk Jelks is general chairman with Ralph Lawton, John Hruby, Dr. Delvin Covey, and Dr. Gulnar Bosch serving with her.

The exact program has not been completed in detail as we go to press February 1st, however, if any alumna from out of Macon is interested in attending, please write the Alumnae Office for a reservation in the old Conservatory building at $1.00 per person, per night.

Phi Delta Phi Has A Member Speaker

Wesleyan College paid tribute to scholarship at the chapel program on January 11, by honoring its own Phi Delta Phi Honor Society. Emily Bell, member of Phi Delta Phi and magna cum laude graduate of the class of 1948 with a Ph.D. from Vanderbilt University, spoke at the induction ceremonies. She was introduced by the president of Phi Delta Phi, Emmie (Carlton) Johnson, magna cum laude graduate of 1949.

Dr. Bell, instructor in bio-chemistry at Vanderbilt, spoke on equating the sciences and the humanities and "placing both on the true foundation of modern living, the ground rock of our religious heritage." She emphasized dangers of specialization in any one field unless a student has a well-integrated knowledge or understanding of both areas of culture. She stressed that it is at such schools as Wesleyan that students can begin the integration which is necessary, not only for doing graduate work, but for "this strenuous business of living as a whole complete person."

Emily during her senior year at Wesleyan was not only elected to Phi Delta Phi but to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She was elected Girl of the Year, Senior Superlative, and President of the YWCA organization.

The three seniors inducted into the honor society were: Jean Thrasher, Atlanta; Joan Clements, Eatonton; and Martha Jean Laslie, Attapulgus.

The general comment of the students who heard Emily was tersely expressed as follows in the January 21st issue of Town & Country: "Chapel speakers like that, we love!"

The Chapman Bequest

Lila May Chapman, A.B. 1890, loyal alumna of Wesleyan and an active member of the Phi Mu Sorority, died suddenly on October 22 just before the November issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae went to press. A brief notice of her death appeared in that issue.

On November 30 The Alumnae Office was notified of her bequest to the Alumnae Association, as follows:

"To the Alumnae Department of Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, of which I am a graduate, One One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollar Savings Bond, to be paid by my Executor hereinafter named to an official of that College. In making this donation, I am requesting that the money be used for articles of furniture for the Alumnae Department with the suggestion that it may perhaps be invested in a glass museum case for display of variou types.

"The decision, however, on what shall be purchased may be left to the judgment of the Board of Managers and the Alumnae Director, who at the present time is Miss Eunice Thomson.

"Also it is my desire that all of my collection of Moon and Star pattern glass be presented to the Alumnae Department of Wesleyan College."

Miss Lila May received a Wesleyan Alumnae Award in 1953 for distinguished service and in 1952 was one of 13 to receive the Phi Mu Achievement Award. Among some of her papers, written in her own handwriting, was found this quetation from Victor Hugo: "The grave is not a blind alley; it is a thoroughfare. It closes on the twilight; it opens on the dawn."

Alpha Delta Pi Scholarship

Applications for the Alpha Delta Pi Scholarship to Wesleyan College should be sent to Mrs. I. L. Domingos, 112 Hines Terrace, Macon, Ga., before june 1st.

The scholarship of $250.00 is granted by the Grand Council of Alpha Delta Pi to some student who is "daughter, granddaughter, or great-granddaughter or some relation to a member of the society."

Trustee's Wife Woman Of Year

Mrs. Goodrich C. White, wife of a Wesleyan trustee and of the president of Emory University, is Atlanta's Woman of the Year in Arts.

Her book, "With Wings as Eagles," is one of the outstanding non-fiction books of the year, telling the story of a mother's grief on losing her son in war—and her faith and triumph over death.

Now in its third printing, the book was the selection of The Family Bookshelf and has been purchased by the Reader's Digest for short form publication

Newest Alumnae Entertained

Four January graduates and two seniors leaving to join their husbands were entertained January 27 with a Coca-Cola party in the Alumnae Office.

Malene (Lee) Morgan, alumnae secretary, explained the work of the Alumnae Office to these newest alumnae and gave each a copy of the latest Wesleyan Alumnae magazine for a souvenir and a small picture of the first diploma ever given a woman.

The honor guests were Mary Frances Axley, Murphy, N. C.; Ruth (Forehand) Griffin, Macon; Bernice (Cook) Fulton, Birmingham, Ala.; Gwen (Jackson) Lindsey, Macon; all four graduates; and Nancy (Williams) Holliman, Birmingham, Ala.; and Myra (Highsmith) Duckworth, Macon.

Wesleyan In The Sunday School

When the Macon District workers of Methodist Church Schools met at Vineville Methodist Church in November for a panel discussion and inspirational address, Wesleyan was well represented. On the program were Dr. Richard Klemer, member of the Wesleyan faculty; the Rev. C. Leon Smith, husband of Ann (McDonald) Smith, A.B. 1940; Emmie (Carlton) Johnson, A.B. 1949; Ann Maria Domingos, A.B. 1939. The inspirational speaker was Bishop John Branscomb, one of our own trustees.

Homecoming—Time For Memories

The songs and cheers are quiet and the happy tears have dried, but the memories linger of that wonderful weekend back on the Rivoli campus for many alumnae who returned for Homecoming.

Jean Thrasher of Atlanta, Editor-in-Chief of Town & Country, wrote about it as follows:

"Homecoming is a time for remembering—a time for greeting Tri-K's, Green Knights, Golden Hearts and Purple Knights of other years.

"Welcome home, alumnae. This is your week-end for remembering and reliving some of the most vivid experiences of your college life—class songs drifting across the soccer field, shouts growing to crescendo when a score is made, and seniors in caps and gowns shedding a few tears at the last banquet until they too will come home.

"You will greet both your own classmates and the new faces that have taken your place.

"Memories of the past and hopes for the future blend together to make the present Homecoming one of the best parts of Wesleyan tradition."

From the picnic supper and informal dance Friday night, the soccer games and Thanksgiving banquet Saturday, to the spectacular formal Saturday night when Gretchen Nelson, freshman of Panama City, Fla., reigned as Homecoming queen, the week-end was a tremendous success. Alumnae were here, there, and everywhere; and although the following list is not complete, here are some of the alumnae back for the activities:

Also seen on the campus were Mary Jo Thompson, '47; Elise (Hartman) Mc-Elrath, '52; and the following members of the class of 1949: Emmie (Carlton) Johnson, Anne Strozier, Betty (Mackay) Asbury, Emily (Hancock) Jones, Marior (Allison) Webb, Betty Faye (Holt) Lawton, and Roslyn (Atkinson) Harden Emmie entertained the '49'ers at lunch at her home.

Eunice Thomson Honored

by Freda (Kaplan) Nadler

A silver tray, "sterling, as she is," was presented to Eunice Thomson by the Wesleyan Alumnae Association upon her resignation as Alumnae Director late in 1953

Eunice, who was graduated from Wesleyan in 1925, A.B., magna cum laude, had served in the Alumnae Office since February 1926, progressing from assistant Secretary and Alumnae Editor to Alumnae Director. Over a quarter of a century she came to know hundreds of alumnae, who treasured her interest and friendship.

In 1952 she asked for a leave of absence so that she might earn her Master's Degree at Emory Unifersity. Last fall she joined the staff of Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, in New York, and resigned her post at the College.

When the Alumnae Council met in November, it accepted her resignation with regret, passed a resolution of esteem, and voted to send her a gift. Nonie (Acree) Quillian was appointed chairman of the committee. With the help of Rosaline (Jenkins) Gilmore and Irene (Sewell) Hobby, a lovely square tray was selected and engraved as follows:

"Presented by the Wesleyan Alumnae Association to Eunice Thomson, who long has loved and dreamed and worked for Wesleyan and who long will be loved by countless daughters of the Oldest and Best."

Upon its receipt, Eunice wrote: "You will never know what it meant to me to find the lovely tray with the expression of your affection for me at just the time it came! I had been called home on account of illness in my family and on my return the beautiful tray was waiting for me in the office, a heartening experience, I can tell you!

"It is the loveliest thing I ever owned, and I appreciate it both for itself and for the assurance of your love. It is just as well that all of my new associates could know that my alumnae were fond of me, too! I do thank you all from the bottom of my heart, and wish for you, under new leadership, the best year in the history of the College."

THE LOYALTY FUND TO DATE

This is the beginning of Wesleyan's second quarter century at Rivoli, and many of our alumnae have expressed pleasure in celebrating this occasion by sending more to the Loyalty Fund than in the past. The notes accompanying these gifts have been an inspiration. Some alumnae made pledges and are sending in their gifts

Let us quote from a few. We wish space permitted them all. Jackie (Spradlin) 53, wrote, "I will remember that it was out of a good man's love and loyalty to Wesleyan that I was privileged to spend two wonderful years at Rivoli. I can never repay this man; but I feel that through the Alumnae Fund I can help someone else to enjoy college life at Weslevan, The Oldest and Best."

Leila C. Birch, '06, wrote, "I sent my Loyalty Fund contribution to Weslevan last month, but as the College is having a birthday, I want to add to what I have sent."

Mary (Jones) Anderson, '82, wrote, "Enclosed is my Loyalty Fund 'bit' but with it goes my love and best wishes always for Wesleyan."

Octavia (Burden) Stewart, '06, wrote that although she gives a scholarship she wanted to make another contribution.

Margaret T. (Hall) Hazard, '01, wrote, "I will contribute monthly until my pledge is paid. It's always a pleasure to do something for Wesleyan."

Mary (Loehr) Arnold, '06, wrote, "I hope and trust there will be an avalanche of donations to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the opening on Rivoli campus, which I hope to have the pleasure of seeing some day.

We appreciate what each and every alumna has done so far and are happy to list as of February 1 the contributors by classes for the 1953-54 fund:

Religious Emphasis Week

Bishop John Branscomb of the Jacksonville area, including the Florida and Cuba Conferences of the Methodist Church, led the fall religious emphasis program on the campus in November.

Poet Visits Campus

Collister Hutchison, poet, whose works appear in leading American anthologies, visited the College November 16 and 17. Besides addressing the student body at chapel, she spoke to several classes of English.

Craig's Wife Staged

A new star was born December 4 when Libby Glenn of Anniston, Ala., portrayed Harriet Craig in the George Kelly dramatic success, Craig's Wife. This was the second play of the season given by the Drama Department.

Other convincing performances were given by Phyllis Sanderson, Joan Arlt, and Gayle Attaway. Two first-timers on the Wesleyan stage were Marcia Griffin and Delores Tyre, who added comic relief and did a splendid job.

Christmas Chorus

The Wesleyan chorus of 50 girls under the direction of Dr. Vernon Fay and a group of dancers gave a Christmas program in Pierce Chapel the night of December 15.

The audience was charmed with the superb performance and the unusual arrangements of old, familiar songs. There were solos by Pat Harper of Jesup, Carolyn Sims of Atlanta, and Pat Waters of Fitzgerald.

The Aquacade

The Naiads' annual aquacade, presented December 11 and 12, portrayed the theme of "Sea Moods and Man." It was carried out in five formations of Morning, Midday, Storm, Twilight and Night.

Poetry for the production was written by Myra (Highsmith) Duckworth, president of Naiads.

Miss Wesleyan Chosen

Jeannice Hammond, West Palm Beach, Fla., and Ruth White of Atlanta were elected Miss Wesleyan, Fine Arts and Liberal Arts respectively.

Selected on the basis of character, scholarship and leadership in extra-curricular and academic activities, the two girls will be featured in the 1954 Veter-

The first student art exhibit on the Rivoli campus was held in the student lounge from January 9-16.

The Wesleyan Alumnae Association served punch to the visitors on Saturday afternoon, the opening day, with Valeria (McCullough) Murphey, '48, Kathleen (Thomasson) Mayfield, '48, and "Corky" (Dessau) Holliday, '48, serving as hos-

India Educator Visits Weslevan

An educational missionary from Isabella Thoburn College of India, Miss Eunice Sluyter, visited the campus and spoke at chapel on February 10th.

Miss Sluyter is a native of New York, a graduate of Hope College of Michigan and did post graduate work at Biblical Seminary and New York University where she received her M.A. degree.

Dances and Teas Planned

Monthly juke-box dances and Sunday afternoon teas from 4 to 6, both in the student lounge, are being planned by Social Standards. Fraternities from Mercer and groups from Warner Robins will be invited at various times.

CLUBS

GREENVILLE, S. C.

The Wesleyan Alumnae Club in Greenville, S. C., came back to life in January with the visit of Malene (Lee) Morgan, Alumnae Secretary, and elected a new Club president, Ruth Diggs, '20. Immediately Ruth began to make plans for an occasional luncheon meeting and to attract outstanding high school seniors to Wesleyan.

Malene was given a warm reception on the 17th by Majorie Watson, '32, a classmate, who met Malene at the station and took her home for Sunday dinner. That afternoon an informal tea was given by Marjorie and Winifred Rogers, '23, in Winifred's home.

Around the tea table to hear news of Wesleyan and the forthcoming inauguration were gathered the following: Ruth Diggs, '20; Marjorie Watson, '32; Winifred Rogers, '23; Lilla (Thomason) Dalton, '44; Lenelle (Lee) Maxwell, '31; Mr. Earle Maxwell; Josephine (Singletary) Hinson, '35; Ruth (Daniel) Harper, 23; and Mr. and Mrs. DuPont Guerry, Jr.

While in Greenville Malene attended the District III Conference of the American Alumni Council held at the Hotel Poinsett.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS Dr. Martin Entertained

Dr. B. Joseph Martin spent January 4th and 5th in San Antonio, and when he left, he left "with the hearts of eight Wesleyan alumnae and many, many girls and their mothers!" Annette (Emerson) Loyd, '47, secretary of the Alumnae Club there, wrote the Alumnae Office as follows about his visit:

"Dr. Martin is such a wonderful man; so sincere, enthusiastic, and so much fun to be around. You didn't exaggerate at all about him. We surely hated to see him leave. He gave the most inspiring talk at the dinner and our husbands caught his enthusiasm as well as we. We had an informal discussion after the dinner and all of us are really inspired by the progress and the future of Wesleyan.

"During the day Monday, Lillian (Mann) Jauquet, '41, president of the Club, and Miriam (Rudesal) Smith, '42, took Dr. Martin on a sight-seeing tour and introduced him to Mexican food. Tuesday morning, Evelyn (Moore) Means, '37, was his guide around the

Atlanta Club's Newest Group

The Atlanta alumnae in the classes 1950 through 1959, as they graduate, will make up Group VII, which was organized last November under the leadership of Nonie (Acree) Quillian, '09.

The new officers of this group are: president, Marjorie Perkins, '51; vice-president, Suzanne McCowen, '52; secretary, Ann (Purvis) Church, '51; and treasurer, Martha Banks, '51.

Mary Lewis, '51, at the organization meeting made a most interesting talk, using colored slides, on her year at the University of London. Activities are under way, and the meetings are varying as to type and time while the group determines what the members would like.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

The Jacksonville Alumnae Club entertained Dr. Martin January 26, with a tea at the home of Sara (Hammock) Middlebrooks, '32, the first since his inauguration as president of Wesleyan College.

Over 30 alumnae attended from Jacksonville, Atlantic Beach and Neptune Beach, as well as a group of high school seniors, to hear Dr. Martin speak about Wesleyan.

Hostesses for the tea were Hazel (Macon) Nixon, '31; Gladys (Leavitt) Prior, '32; Rose (Varner) Bailey, '30; Verna Chitty, '39; Helen (White) Lindell, '41; Martha (White) Cliett, '43; Annette (White) King, '31; Carolyn Roth, '33. Mattie Beulah (McMath) White, '19, and Maie Dell (Roberts) Covington, '06, poured tea and coffee.

city and arranged for him to meet some of her friends for lunch.

"At four o'clock that afternoon the tea was held in the home of Inez (Ward) Wright, '32, and was a success beyond our fondest dreams, with over one hundred guests and 65 or 70 of those being high school girls. Lelia (Aiken) Tenney, '41, was co-hostess. After Dr. Martin left the receiving line, he and the guests went to the game room where we showed the colored slides while he talked. The girls were spellbound. They loved him! He had charmed everyone. I feel certain that in the next year or two San Antonio is going to be well represented at Wesleyan!"

Other alumnae helping to entertain Dr. Martin were: Katherine (Hudson) Herrington, '33; Maidee (Smith) Ray, '33, who had charge of publicity and made posters for the high schools displaying scenes of Wesleyan College; and Mura Leone (Palin) Lagerquist, '21.

We have heard through the grapevine of the fine work Merrilyn (Welch) Eastham is doing in the Graduate School of Boston University. She is in a class of 130, 124 of whom are men and 6, women, all older than she and many with teaching and preaching experience. Merrilyn received the only A plus in her class, and the following was written by Dr. E. A. Leslie on her term paper:

"Grade A—This is an excellent piece of work. It rewards good historical knowledge. It is sensitive to great religious concepts and teachings. It has a charm of narration. The writer takes the reader into her confidence as she explores the vast variety of literature here to be studied, and we feel the lilt of her spirit as she responds to the great concepts of the growing literature of Israel. A fine piece of work!
